Listen All Ye Fans! It's Home Run Baker's Birthday

Down in Macon Frank Home Run Baker is celebrating his thirtieth birthday, and as a birthday gift to the fans Al Mimro Elias, baseball statistician, has compiled tables of Frank's achiements with the bludgeon. In 1914, Baker's last season with the Athletics, he hit the Yankee pitchers harder than any other corps in the league, while the Red Sox hurlers gave him the most trouble. Frank found easy picking when he batted against the following pitchers still in the league: Dubuc, Benz, Walsh, Scott, Keating, Boehling, James, McHale and Shaw. Walter Johnson—where have we heard that name before?—puzzled Frank most. The figures follow:
